PHYSICALLY, the situation along the demarcation line between the two German divisions gets no worse. A great deal is happening that looks absurd but may have some profound purpose. The British side of the Russian-controlled Berlin broadcast station, which lies within the British sector, was an example of the odd measures taken in retaliation for obstructive action by the Russians: the building, and the forty odd staff and guards inside, were besieged; but nothing whatever was done to check the station's normal activities. The transmission cables, which could have been cut quite easily, were left intact; and the station's own defiant version of the episode was broadcast to the German people day and night. This, presumably, is what is meant by cold war, of which another example is the Soviet telephone bill for $1,600,000 presented to the British High Commissioner. It is stated to be a charge for the British official cable between British Headquarters in Berlin through the Soviet zone to Wahnheide for the period August 1945 to May 1952. The cold war gives limitless opportunity for a peculiarly vicious kind of terrorism.

THE East Germans are continuing their hedging-and-ditching operations through farm and forest from the Baltic to Bavaria. The line on the map is not demarcated enough. It has to be dug into the defunct earth, deep enough to be a trap for the unwary. People still go to and fro, but only at controlled access and exit points. It is a means of stopping the mischief-makers, said Herr Grotewohl; and this should be taken seriously, according to the London "Telegraph" because "much propaganda goes into Eastern Germany, and much information comes out of it." Here again the move seems only a half measure, chiefly because a great deal of illicit trade is carried on across the line, which neither side would like to see stopped. Observers in search of an explanation say that the half measure is that the Soviet is trying to work up another Korea. It wants to push the East German government more and more to the forefront and leave it to take whatever initiative may one day be decided upon, while Russia stays innocently in the background.

THE actions of both sides in that struggle, neither side would appear to admit of any qualifying factor. The logic of the conflict, the stakes and the without deviation, and that is where Germany, East and West, comes in. It explains why Germany is being rehabilitated and wooed by East and West. It explains why the West is determined to rearm their half of Germany. That being said, and in view of the need for a logical, intelligent, and sensible settlement, for the time being, qualifications of a practical character, it may be necessary for all those who give unquestioned support to the general policy of Western governments to forgo their prudent objections to German rearmament, without which the armed forces of the West must undoubtedly be inadequate for the purpose the Western world has set itself. At General Eisenhower pointed out at Abilene, we must try to raise moral standards to practical needs if we can; if we cannot, the practical needs may still compel us to deal with Tito's Yugoslavia and Franco's Spain, both of which are morally less admirable in the American view, than Germany.

THOROUGHLY, this ruthless thinking, logical, practical and realistic as it may be, has not yet led to any rational, logical, practical or realistic action; but has brought about the fumbling, nervous and half-hearted developments along the demarcation line between East and West Germany.

31 Killed In Koje Fighting

KOJE ISLAND, Tuesday.—A large force of American troops, spearheaded by 1,000 paratroopers armed with flame-throwers, concussion and tear gas grenades, bayoneted rifles, tanks and armoured cars, today fought North Korean prisoners in Compound 76 at the P.O.W. camp here, who resisted attempts by the authorities to break up the area into smaller units. At least 30 prisoners and one U.S. soldier were reported killed when fighting ended a little more than two hours later.

Action started against the prisoners when they completely ignored an ultimatum from the new camp commandant, General Boatner, to transfer quietly to smaller compounds.

The prisoners, armed with spears and swords, entrenched themselves behind sandbag placements and barricaded buildings. Shooting prisoners rushed at the advancing troops, hurling rocks and at one time joined in a hand to hand fierce struggle.

The prisoners, armed with spears and swords, entrenched themselves behind sandbag placements and barricaded buildings. Shooting prisoners rushed at the advancing troops, hurling rocks and at one time joined in a hand to hand fierce struggle.

Prisoners Fire Buildings
General Boatner, directing the operation from the prison tower told correspondents "we have done everything possible to avoid bloodshed. If there must be bloodshed, there must be," he said.

At this point, the troops used concussion and tear gas grenades to crush resistance. Soon prisoners, stumbling and reeling, began to race forward with their hands clasped behind their heads in surrender.

A 19-year-old boy was found among the 300 deadards who held out in a building until tanks bore down on them. Observers report that some fanatic prisoners set fire to buildings in which other prisoners were holed up, and that some of the holed up prisoners offered to surrender.

Malik Rejects Arms Proposals
NEW YORK, Tuesday (AP).—The U.S.S.R. today rejected a plan for voluntary limits on the armed forces of the big powers.

The Soviet delegate, Mr. Jacob Malik, told the U.N. Disarmament Commission that the proposal of the U.S., Britain and France was designed to prevent a real reduction of arms and to avoid prohibition of atomic weapons.

The Western countries proposed that the Soviet Union, the U.S. and China should limit their forces to 15 million each, and that Britain and France should agree to ceilings of 800,000 each.

Mr. Malik said the proposals still "artificially and arbitrarily" separated the problems of armed forces from the questions of arms reduction and the prohibition of atomic weapons. The proposals actually opened the possibility of increasing the armed forces instead of reducing them, he said.

W. German Aid To Berlin Reaffirmed
BONN, Tuesday.—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer declared today that the Communists are trying to impose a psychological blockade on Berlin and promised that his Government will pump new economic blood into the city to help it resist.

Dr. Adenauer said that Berlin, caught in a new East-West nerve war, is of decisive importance to the peace of Europe and the Western world.

Speaking before a cheering Parliament and Berlin's Mayor Ernst Reuter, the Chancellor said: "We assure Berliners that our promises for economic assistance and other aid measures, will be met... the Federal Government will do everything possible to prevent this psychological blockade of the city which the forces of the East have sought to impose."

Chief of Soviet Control Commission General Vasily Chulakov today demanded that the U.S. occupation authorities immediately discontinue their armed patrols on the Helmsdorf-Berlin autobahn.

He made the request in a letter to the Acting U.S. High Commissioner in Germany, Samuel Reber.

Selo's Cabinet Lacks Power, Is Seen as Facade

By a Special Correspondent

The new Syrian cabinet, the first in Syria's modern history to be headed by an army officer, will have no real power. According to the decree which appointed it, the cabinet is to be primarily an advisory body, whose decisions are not binding on the Head of State. Col. Selo retains the posts of Defence and Interior and is given wide legislative and executive powers which do not need cabinet approval for their use.

Only one of the new cabinet, Dr. Sami Tabara, has previously held a post in political life. He belongs to a notable Homs family, until recently was a member of Akram Hourani's "Socialist" Party and has already served as Minister.

Three other ministers, Munir Ghanam (Justice), Safer Rifa'i (Foreign Affairs) and Tewfik Haroun (Public Works) are lawyers. The others are from industry and commerce.

It is reported from Beirut that public opinion in Syria and the Lebanon regards the cabinet as a mere facade behind which Shishakly and Selo will carry on as before so long as they retain physical power.

The new cabinet met for the first time in Damascus yesterday morning. It decided to continue the present policy of confiscation of land and its distribution to landless peasants.

Lebanon Papers Suspended
The Lebanese government has suspended eight daily papers in Beirut for publication of the Arab League's secretariat on the ownership regulations and for criticizing the government, ANA reports. Thirty Beirut lawyers have volunteered to defend the publishers and editors to be brought to trial, who include the Socialist Party leader, Kamal Jumblatt, a Druse.

A number of Arab states, including Syria, have suggested to the Arab League's secretariat that the forthcoming Arab League meeting be held in the Old City of Jerusalem. This would be regarded as a counter move to the Israeli Foreign Ministry's transfer to Jerusalem.

At the cabinet meeting on Tuesday morning, Syria's dictator, Colonel Adib Shishakly, visited the new cabinet and addressed the army's fullest support for the new body.

MacArthur Chosen As Keynote

CHICAGO, Tuesday (Reuters).—General MacArthur was today chosen to deliver the "keynote" address at the Republican National Convention here on July seven.

"The Key Note" is the main opening speech that is to set the tone for the Convention and campaign. The choice was made in private by the Convention's 48-member Arrangements Committee.

Representative Joseph Martin, House Minority Leader, who praised MacArthur as a possible presidential candidate, was named unanimously as Permanent Chairman of the Convention.

Knesset Vote Today On Ten p.c. Loan
By Moshe Brilliant, POST Parliamentary Correspondent

The Knesset will vote this afternoon on a series of Opposition proposals designed to repeal or soften the compulsory loan measures announced by the Government on Sunday, but the coalition appeared firm on the question during the general debate yesterday, and there was no likelihood of any upset.

The positions of the opposition groups ranged from approval with strong reservations by the Progressives and the Mapam dissidents; proposals by the General Zionists and Mapam for far-reaching amendments designed to make the measure inapplicable to a large number of people; and a motion by Herut to repeal the Emergency Regulations which were the legal basis for the Government's action. The Communists' opposition sprang from the "line" that the measure had been ordered from Washington to prepare a springboard here for an attack upon Russia.

But perhaps more vital in the debate yesterday was a difference of opinion amongst Mapai front-benchers on the question of action to be taken with regard to property holders. Mr. Pinhas Lavon and Mr. Akiva Govrin argued with strong conviction for a compulsory loan while Mr. Zalman Aranne came out strongly for a capital levy designed to raise funds over a period of years for the redemption of Compulsory Loan certificates. This division (which will not be tested by a vote held up action in the matter, but the Finance Minister said yesterday that the bill would be submitted to the Knesset before the end of the month.

Exemptions from Loan
Mr. Kaplan also said in his speech that only the accounts of the Government and foreign diplomatic missions had thus far been exempted from the compulsory levy, but it was proposed also to exempt Municipalities and perhaps other classes of depositors.

Proposals for the relief of other groups were put forward by Mr. Elimelech Rimalt (General Zionists) who suggested that bank accounts of less than IL200 and cash under IL200 should be exempt, while an appeals committee should be formed with authority to grant exemptions in special cases. Dr. Moshe Sneh (Mapam) advocated the exemption of bank accounts under IL200 and cash under IL200 as well as a progressive scale of percentages of deductions. Mr. David Livshitz (Mapam dissident) proposed some reforms including a progressive scale and exemption of savings for housing.

All these suggestions will be considered in a session which will come up for vote. Although the debate will be closed today, it may be reopened next week when new legislation for the Government measures will be introduced. Mr. Kaplan said that it has been necessary to use Emergency Regulations in order to maintain secrecy, but that the necessary legislation would be introduced in the House on Monday.

He added later that the element of surprise was not necessary with regard to the measure contemplated against property owners, and it could therefore be handled through normal legislative channels.

A basic question in the debate was the effect the forced loans would have on inflation. Mr. Peretz Bernstein (General Zionists) and Dr. Yohanan Badash (Herut) said that the forced loans would have a deflationary effect. Their reasoning was that the banknotes were not being replaced out of circulation to be burned as had been done in other countries, but the money would be reintroduced into the economy in the form of wages to Government officials. However, the Minister of Communications, Mr. D. S. Flatau, answered that the use of the funds in the Development budget would make the money more productive than it had been.

Rumanian Minister Leaves Suddenly
TEL AVIV, Tuesday.—The Rumanian Minister to Israel, M. Constantin Stancescu, and the First Secretary of the Legation, M. Nicolae Stancu, suddenly left Israel in the a.s. Sulina from Haifa yesterday. Their departure was so hurried that the Minister did not even notify the Foreign Ministry. They were accompanied by a third official whose name was not known. M. Stancescu's wife remained in Tel Aviv.

Political circles here suggested that the Minister's departure was probably connected with recent political moves in Rumania, which affected the Rumanian Foreign Minister, Mrs. Anna Pauker.

M. Stancescu arrived in London on June 23 for talks with Mr. Eden.

Goldmann Seeks Adenauer

By JESSE ZEL LURIE, POST Correspondent

NEW YORK, Tuesday.—Dr. Nahum Goldmann will be presented by Chancellor Adenauer today with a concrete offer for capital goods and machinery valued at over a billion dollars to be delivered to Israel within five years, according to German sources here. Heading the list are two new ships, (one passenger and one freighter) to be built at Kiel for Israel.

No foreign currency is offered, so if the proposal is accepted, Israel would have to reimburse German Jews outside of Israel who are represented by Dr. Goldmann.

The Adenauer government is most anxious to resume the Hague negotiations on June 19 on the basis of the above offer, this source said.

By GEORGE LICHTHEIM, POST Correspondent

LONDON, Tuesday.—Dr. Goldmann is scheduled to arrive in Bonn today and will meet Dr. Adenauer either today or tomorrow. It is understood that a report of the meeting will serve as a basis for the Israel Government's decision whether to continue reparations talks.

Formerly, Dr. Goldmann still represents only non-Israeli bodies which are not affected by the Israel "ban" on meetings in Germany territory. The German are, however, more interested in discussing Israel's claims, a fact which creates some difficulties for Dr. Goldmann.

If a decision is taken to resume the talks, Dr. F. Schimmler and Dr. O. Josephthal will proceed straight from here to the Hague.

Eden Promises 'Full Debate' on Germany
LONDON, Tuesday (AP).—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden promised a "full debate" before Parliament is asked to ratify the new pact between Germany and the Western powers.

He told the House of Commons that the agreement "provides a sound basis for Germany's future cooperation with the Western powers in defence and other matters."

"Though forced upon us by the Soviet actions, our policy in Germany has never been directed against the Soviet Union but are the present agreement," he said.

Acheson Urges Quick Ratification
WASHINGTON, Tuesday (AP).—The Senate was today urged to give quick approval to the German peace contract and guarantee to help defend West Germany against aggression.

Appearing before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee as the administration's first witness in the hearings before the vote, Secretary of State Dean Acheson stressed the "great importance" of an early ratification of both documents and said he was confident that all the other powers concerned would follow suit if this were done.

Jordanian Evidence Not Accepted
Two outstanding complaints were discussed by the Israel-Jordan Mixed Armistice Commission at a six-hour formal meeting yesterday at Mandelbaum Gate in Jerusalem. It was announced officially.

An Israel condemnation of Jordan for permitting persons to enter the Latrun no-man's-land — three of whom were killed — was not accepted. The Jordan delegation would not accept the evidence presented by two U.N. observers — much to the surprise of the Israeli delegation. It was said, The M.A.C. chairman abstained from voting on grounds that insufficient evidence had been presented to warrant voting.

Discussions were continued on an Israeli demand that the Jordanian Mixed Armistice Commission be given the right to conduct investigations with armoured cars and armoured personnel carriers in the Jordanian zone, as they do in the Israeli zone.

Spoke Abul Haidar Pasha and Ben Shimon Shimon were mentioned and Moshe Shimon Shimon and Eliezer Shimon Shimon were mentioned. Col. Shimon Shimon was in the chair.

An Arab infiltrator from the West Bank district was reported by Israel to Jordan at Mandelbaum Gate in Jerusalem, on Monday. "Tel Aviv" reported the infiltrator will be tried in the Old City, the paper said.

British Consul Meets Queen Zein in Hiding

GENEVA, Tuesday (AP).—Queen Zein of Jordan is anxious that her husband, King Talal, should enter a nerve clinic as soon as possible. Mr. Edward T. Lambert, British Consul-General in Geneva, said today.

Mr. Lambert had an interview with the Queen in her secret hiding place somewhere in French Switzerland. The Queen fled from her Lausanne hotel with her eldest son, Crown Prince Hussein, and two of the children a few hours before Talal arrived there from Paris on Saturday morning.

Talal is staying in the Lausanne hotel which his wife left shortly before his arrival. He is waiting there for news from the Queen as well as for the return of A.D.C. whom he sent to Jordan last week to sound out Jordan government opinion on his possible return to the throne.

Mr. Lambert stated that the Queen is quite willing to follow Talal back to Jordan if he decides to go there. But she feels that wherever he goes, he must undergo medical treatment before she can rejoin him. Mr. Lambert added that the Queen and her two younger children would remain in Switzerland for the time being, at least until Talal decided on his next step. Doctors here have stated that the King is suffering from a form of schizophrenia which causes fits of depression and persecution mania.

Crown Prince Hussein left here by air for London today. He arrived at Geneva airport escorted by several plainclothes policemen.

King Talal's A.D.C. Col. Khairallah Jarafeh, arrived in Amman on Monday night from Geneva. Upon his arrival the Jordan cabinet went into a secret session to hear his report and to discuss a personal letter from King Talal to Abul Huda.

Abul Haidar Pasha, Jordan Minister in Paris, is reported to have informed the government that Talal will be returning before the end of the week according to "Talal," the Old City daily.

Sudan-Egypt Parley Ends

CAIRO, Tuesday (Reuters).—The Sudanese and Egyptians have agreed to study the result of their negotiations, but it was still premature to say what the next step will be, announced Salah El Chenniti, Speaker of the Sudan Legislative Assembly and member of the Sudanese mission to Cairo, said here last night.

He said that the delegation was not taking any message to Khartoum except Egypt's expression of goodwill to the leader of the Umma Party, El Mahdi Pasha. He documented were exchanged during the talks, El Chenniti added.

"Britain could not talk on behalf of the Sudan Government and from now on the Government will talk for itself," he asserted.

The Waad party today expressed "disapproval in principle" of Premier Hili Pasha's negotiations with a Sudanese delegation from the Umma party which stands for Sudan's independence.

"We earnestly welcome friendship between Egyptian and Sudanese leaders but we cannot, after promulgating the self government, turn back to negotiations on the subject," Nahas Pasha stated. "We hope that the Sudanese delegation is convinced that our unity is eternal."
